

In order to bring more happiness to travellers and take advantage of computer technology, we designed this system called "Dreamy Wish Wall".

When a traveller finished their journey or leave a tourist destination, they always want to leave a meaningful sentence of their own, if they come again they can see what they left now days, but, there is no doubt that write this in somewhere is a uncivilized behavior, so that's what we designed this system for.

This system is made up of two computers and one overhead projector, one computer is connected with the projector, travellers can use their own cellphone to leave wishes what they wants and playing a video game on the projector's screen with other travellers, the game can be controlled by their cellphone or body movement, their wish will be stored in the system forever, anytime they come again they can see what they left before. If this system can be put into use in real, it will bring a lot of funny to travellers.
